DR. GEO. C. PARDEE GIVES HIS DEPOSITION IN THE ENQUIRER CASE TELLS WHY HE WENT ON DANIELS' NOTE.

PRINCE MAKES SPEECH

SHYLOCK IS OUTDONE BY EX-POLICEMAN.

Says That He Was Willing to Help His Friend---
His Interest in Politics---Meetings Were Held at the Doctor's Home.

Henry is Given Royal Welcome by People of St. Louis.

Mrs. M. W. Bothwell Borrowed $60 and Now the Money Lender Owns Her Entire Store
---She Must Retire From Business.

At 11 o'clock this morning Dr. George C. Pardee appeared before Court Commissioner Babcock to testify in the suit brought against him and others, and the Enquirer Publishing Company, by D. Edward Collins.

ACH EXAMINES.

He was represented by W. B. Treadwell, Henry Ach, attorney for Mr. Collins, conducted the examination. Dr. Pardee testified that he had known G. B. Daniels for many years.

"Have you ever had any business connection with Mr. Daniels?" asked Mr. Ach.

"Nothing special," was the response. "You were not interested in his business?"

"No."

"You only knew of it as you knew of other business houses?"

"I knew Mr. Daniels personally, and passed by his place frequently; went in there quite often."

"Did you have any financial interest in the concern?"

"No."

"Just patronized it occasionally?"

"Yes."

DANIELS LOANED HIM MONEY.

"Did you ever lend Mr. Daniels any money?"

"No."

"Did he ever lend you any money?"

"Yes."

"How much?"

"I don't remember. I needed some temporarily and he loaned me. Several hundred dollars, I think."

"Did you give him a note?"

"No."

"You just needed some money for the moment and went in and got it of Mr. Daniels and returned it next day?"

"In a few days, at any rate."

"Was no permanent transaction?"

"No."

"You had no other connection with Mr. Daniels or his business, did you?"

"No."

PARDEE'S INTEREST IN POLITICS.

"Have you taken much interest in politics, especially the politics of Alameda county?"

Pardee—Considerable. Just as any good citizen does.

Ach—What conversation did you have with E. A. Leach about the purchase of the Enquirer?"

Pardee—I don't remember that I had any.

Ach—You endorsed a note for Daniels given ostensibly for the purchase of the paper?"

Pardee—I did.

Ach—Who induced you to do that?"

Pardee—I did it at the request of Mr. Daniels.

Ach—Did you discuss the sale of the paper with Mr. Leach, Mr. Collins and Mr. Nye?"

Pardee—Not specially as I remember.

Ach—Who suggested that you endorse Mr. Daniels' note?"

Pardee—Mr. Daniels.

Ach—When?"

Pardee—I don't know exactly when. I think he spoke to me about it sometime in September, 1901.

Ach—Where was this?"

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—What did he say?"

Pardee—He said a controlling interest in the Enquirer was for sale and that he would like to buy it.

Ach—Did he ask you then to endorse his note?"

Pardee—Yes.

Ach—What did you tell him?"

Pardee—I told him yes if he could show me that the paper was a paying proposition.

DANIELS' FINANCIAL CONDITION.

Ach—Did you know anything about the financial condition of Mr. Daniels?"

Pardee—Only in a general way.

Ach—Did you know how much property he owned, how much he owed and to whom his debts were due?"

Ach—How came he to join you as an endorser?"

Pardee—I don't know; I suppose he did it at the request of Mr. Daniels.

Ach—Did you discuss with Mr. Dalton the business condition of the Enquirer and the amount for which you were to be jointly security for?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Were you familiar with Mr. Dalton's financial condition?"

Pardee—Only in a general way. I understood he was worth from seventy-five to $100,000. I knew he owned considerable property.

Ach—Did Mr. Dalton tell you the reason that induced him to endorse Daniels' note?"

Pardee—No; Mr. Dalton doesn't talk much.

Ach—You asked him no questions?"

Pardee—Not that I remember of.

Ach—Who first informed you that Mr. Dalton would go on the note with you?"

Pardee—I don't know whether it was Mr. Daniels or Mr. Hadley.

Ach—How many times did you discuss the proposed deal with Mr. Daniels before any conclusion was reached?"

Pardee—No; Mr. Dalton doesn't talk much.

Ach—You told him each time you would endorse his note?"

Pardee—I did.

Ach—But at no time was the amount stated?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—You agreed to go on his note for any sum necessary, did you?"

Pardee—I did on condition that he would show me that the property was paying.

Ach—Did he convince you.

Pardee—He did.

Ach—What statement of the financial condition of the paper was rendered to you?"

Pardee—A statement was made, but I don't recall the details.

Ach—Did Mr. Williamson or Williams render a statement of the Enquirer business to you?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Did he report to you the amount of the expenditures and earnings of the paper?"

Pardee—There was a statement of the kind.

Ach—What was it?"

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Did he give you an inventory of the property?"

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Did the report to you the amount of the expenditures and earnings of the paper?"

Pardee—There was a statement of the kind.

Ach—What was it?"

Pardee—I don't recall the details. I was satisfied of the condition of the paper.

Ach—Did you look over the books yourself?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Did you take any steps to verify the statement made to you?"

Pardee—No, I was satisfied.

Ach—Did the negotiations then being conducted result in the sale of the paper?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—They fell through because of objections raised by Mr. Collins, did they not?"

Pardee—Yes.

Ach—What was the kind.

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Who renewed the negotiations?"

Pardee—Mr. Hadley.

Ach—Did Mr. Hadley ask you to buy the paper?"

Pardee—He did. He told me that the control of the paper could be bought.

Ach—Did you tell him you did not have money to make the purchase?"

Pardee—I did.

Ach—Who suggested that Mr. Dalton be brought into the deal?"

Pardee—I don't know.

Ach—Did you discuss with Mr. Dalton the business condition of the Enquirer and the amount for which you were to be jointly security for?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Were you familiar with Mr. Dalton's financial condition?"

Pardee—Only in a general way. I understood he was worth from seventy-five to $100,000. I knew he owned considerable property.

Ach—Did Mr. Dalton tell you the reason that induced him to endorse Daniels' note?"

Pardee—No; Mr. Dalton doesn't talk much.

Ach—You asked him no questions?"

Pardee—Not that I remember of.

Ach—Who first informed you that Mr. Dalton would go on the note with you?"

Pardee—I don't know whether it was Mr. Daniels or Mr. Hadley.

Ach—How many times did you discuss the proposed deal with Mr. Daniels before any conclusion was reached?"

Pardee—No; Mr. Dalton doesn't talk much.

Ach—You told him each time you would endorse his note?"

Pardee—I did.

Ach—But at no time was the amount stated?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—You agreed to go on his note for any sum necessary, did you?"

Pardee—I did on condition that he would show me that the property was paying.

Ach—Did he convince you.

Pardee—He did.

Ach—What statement of the financial condition of the paper was rendered to you?"

Pardee—A statement was made, but I don't recall the details.

Ach—Did Mr. Williamson or Williams render a statement of the Enquirer business to you?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Did he report to you the amount of the expenditures and earnings of the paper?"

Pardee—There was a statement of the kind.

Ach—What was it?"

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Did he give you an inventory of the property?"

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Did the report to you the amount of the expenditures and earnings of the paper?"

Pardee—There was a statement of the kind.

Ach—What was it?"

Pardee—I don't recall the details. I was satisfied of the condition of the paper.

Ach—Did you look over the books yourself?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Did you take any steps to verify the statement made to you?"

Pardee—No, I was satisfied.

Ach—Did the negotiations then being conducted result in the sale of the paper?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—They fell through because of objections raised by Mr. Collins, did they not?"

Pardee—Yes.

Ach—What was the kind.

Pardee—I don't remember.

Ach—Who renewed the negotiations?"

Pardee—Mr. Hadley.

Ach—Did Mr. Hadley ask you to buy the paper?"

Pardee—He did. He told me that the control of the paper could be bought.

Ach—Did you tell him you did not have money to make the purchase?"

Pardee—I did.

Ach—Did you ever tell Mr. Leach, Mr. Hadley, Mr. Nye or Mr. Collins that you were acting for Daniels and not for yourself?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—Did they believe that they were dealing with you and Mr. Dalton?"

Pardee—I presume so.

Ach—Have you frequently visited the Enquirer office?"

Pardee—Many times.

Ach—Ever write editorials for the paper?"

Pardee—I don't know that I ever wrote an editorial in my life, but I have written a number of articles for the paper. I wrote articles about the bond fight, also when I was a member of the Council and when I was Mayor.

Ach—On political subjects?"

Pardee—On public matters.

Ach—When did Mr. Hadley approach you about buying the controlling interest in the Enquirer?"

Pardee—Some time in October, 1901, I think.

Ach—That was after the negotiations conducted by Daniels through Williams had fallen through by reason of the opposition of Mr. Collins?"

Pardee—Yes.

Ach—It was then that you negotiated with Mr. Leach, Mr. Nye and Mr. Collins, at the instance of Mr. Hadley, for the purchase of the Enquirer stock?"

Pardee—Yes.

Ach—How many shares did you propose to buy?"

Pardee—I don't remember whether it was 500 or 300 or 400—it was the control of the paper.

Ach—How much did you agree to pay?"

Pardee—I don't remember that.

Ach—What price per share was agreed for the stock?"

Pardee—I think it was $10 a share.

Ach—While arranging the purchase, you did not tell Mr. Leach, Mr. Nye, Mr. Hadley or Mr. Collins that you were operating for Mr. Daniels?"

Pardee—No.

Ach—At the meeting with Hadley at which Mr. Dalton was present, was Mr. Daniels there also?"

Pardee—I think not.

DANIELS' PROPERTY.

Ach—Did you inquire into Mr. Daniels' financial condition?"

Pardee—Not specially.

Ach—Did you know whether he was financially responsible or not?"

Pardee—I knew that he owned property.

Ach—What property did he own?"

A peculiar case of usury has come to light, if the story of Mrs. M. W. Bothwell is true. She conducts a small grocery store at the corner of Fifth and Market street. Nearly a year ago she was compelled to borrow a small sum of money.

In her dire necessity she claims to have borrowed $60 of Ex-Policeman Tuman, who now conducts a money lending establishment at the corner of Thirteenth and Clay street.

The contract into which she entered was one calling for an exorbitant rate of interest to be paid monthly, otherwise to be compounded.

Today the woman told a story to the police, which, if it be true, is unequalled probably in the matter of usury, which unfortunately in the State of California is lawful.

The woman said: "I have a little store which is the sole support of myself and family. A short time ago I needed $60 very badly to meet obligations which were due. A friend told me Tuman would lend me the money. I went to him and after signing some paper received $60.

"Since then I have paid Tuman monthly as much as I could. Sometimes I was compelled to let the interest go by. In this manner the principal kept increasing. I have paid in interest alone $150 and the principal is now so large that it covers more than the store is worth.

"During all the time the interest has been running Tuman has been getting groceries for himself and his clerk from my store. The groceries went as part payment of the interest. He has received $150 worth of groceries.

"The principal is not paid and today I was compelled to give Tuman an absolute bill of sale to my store."

"The poor woman is almost distracted and does not know which way to turn for a livelihood. She will be turned out according to her own story, without so much as a stitch of clothing which she can call her own."

The police authorities informed the distressed woman that they did not possess the requisite authority to assist her, even though they might desire to do so.

Mrs. Bothwell says that she has appealed in vain to Tuman for an extension of time in which to pay the interest and principal.

Tuman, the money lender who is placed in such an unfavorable light by Mrs. Bothwell, was one of five policemen dismissed by the Police and Fire Commissioners in accordance with the recent ordinance passed by the City Council to that effect.

The ground on which Tuman was dismissed was that he was engaged in outside business, that of money lending, which is contrary to police regulations.

Tuman recently came into notice on account of an alleged connection with the Nora Fuller murder case. It was presumed at the time that possibly Tuman had loaned Hawkins or Bennett money.

Tuman has been engaged recently in the business of financing street car men to the extent of $25,000, the amount required by the men for uniforms when they first go to work. Tuman is said to charge the employees at the rate of 6 1/2 per cent per month.

DR. J. P. DUNN IS HONORED.

He is Appointed Railroad
Surgeon For the Oakland Department.

Dr. James P. Dunn has been appointed a railway surgeon for the Oakland Division by Dr. M. Gardiner, Chief Surgeon of the Southern Pacific Company.

For several years Dr. Meigs and Dr. Olmstead have been the surgeons for this district, but the increased number of employees made a third surgeon necessary.

The medical department of the railway is excellent. There is an emergency hospital at the foot of Perilla street in West Oakland, which is exceedingly well equipped and patients may be cared for there in emergency cases until they can be removed to the railroad hospital in San Francisco, which is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the West.

Dr. Dunn is well known in Oakland, and it was due to his skill as a surgeon that his appointment was made.

He is a graduate of the University of California and of the medical department of that institution of learning in San Francisco. He was a railroad surgeon from 1890 to 1895, under the regime of Dr. E. H. Woolsey, and from 1895 to 1898 and from 1897 to 1898 he was Health Officer of Oakland. He was formerly visiting physician at the Receiving Hospital.

BOTKIN CASE IS DISMISSED

United States Court Sends it Back For Trial.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—The U. S. Supreme Court today dismissed the case of Mrs. Cordelia Botkin vs. the people of the State of California. The dismissal was ordered upon the presentation by the Clerk of the Court of a stipulation from Mrs. Botkin's counsel authorizing such proceeding.

The case came to the Supreme Court from the decision of the Superior Court of San Francisco and was instituted to secure the release of Mrs. Botkin, who was granted a new trial on the charge of murdering Mrs. John P. Dunning by sending to her a box of poisoned candy.

At the first trial she was sentenced to life imprisonment.

"WAY DOWN EAST" AT MACDONOUGH

LOCAL THEATERS PRESENT A NUMBER OF FINE BILLS FOR THE WEEK.

W. A. Brady's production of the play, "Way Down East," is said to possess a remarkable novelty in the way of a terrible snow storm, the most realistic and original that has yet been given to the stage.

The storm is not a generally falling and insignificant patter, but comes down furious and fast, drifting, driven and genuine; in fact, just like the snow storms that may be seen anywhere in midwinter in New England. It takes sixty machines to do the work, three to carry the snow past the door and three to carry it past the window, the ingredients being cut paper and salt. The machines work quickly and silently, for it would never do to have them reveal themselves to the audience by the roar and buzz of revolving wheels. The action of a snow storm it copies as closely as possible, care being taken to make it intermittently wild and furious, the temporary lull being one of the most characteristic points in a New England snow storm.

The mechanical part of the storm being so perfect, it is well to say that it is not lugged into the play for mere sensational purposes, but it is told that it fits into the action so smoothly and naturally that the spectator accepts it as one element in a strictly logical series of events. Of course, electricity is the power; the old way was to swing aloft out of sight a long bag of torn paper, which fluttered down through the slit in the bag. Sometimes the paper got crowded in one place, so that snow fell on the just but not on the unjust; and then when the cloud broke loose the unjust got a paper wad in the neck. In this scene there is a kitchen with a door and a window, about ten feet above the floor and just at the stage right of the door are electric fans so placed that wind comes in the air to take a sort of a whirl-gig course down past the door and window; the papers dropped out of a box, while salt flows from cylinders into this wind; the beautiful snow beats against the window, and when Anna opens the door and standing on the threshold declares: "I never want to see any of you again," the wind and snow whistles in the doorway.

This unusual realistic effect is promised to be done in its entirety at the Macdonough Theater all this week. Seats are selling very rapidly, which really proves that Oakland has passed beyond a one-night stand.

DEWEY THEATER.
At the Dewey Theater, this evening the amusing comedy, "The Red Cat," will be produced. There is nothing on the stage which can cause a laugh like this piece. It was designed with a view of entertaining. It made a pronounced hit and, since then, it has been added to and improved so that there is not a scene in it which is not mirth provoking. The company appears to excellent advantage in the piece.

The play will run all the week.

PECK'S BROADWAY.
At Peck's Broadway Theater tonight there will be presented a program which in variety and excellence has not been excelled at this place of amusement. The program is an excellent one. It comprises a number of performers, who have established reputations in their respective lines, and who will undoubtedly give satisfaction to the audience.

ROSEWASSERS.
At Rosewassers' Vaudeville House, the week opens with a bill which greatly exceeds any of the programs which have preceded it. The program is full of life and vivacity and will undoubtedly be greatly appreciated by the public. The performers are people with established reputations and all of them are known to the patrons of amusement in this city. The bill will run throughout the week.

E. B. JEROME'S ESTATE IS APPRAISED.

The estate of the late E. B. Jerome has been appraised at $200 by J. J. Hamilton Jr., Joseph Ghirardelli and George P. Nye. It consists of $22,221 in cash, an insurance policy for $20,000, and a gold watch and the house and lot at Eighth and Chestnut streets, where the decedent lived.

ESTATE TO BE DISTRIBUTED.

The estate of the late W. G. Whidden has been ordered distributed to the widow, Lillian Whidden, with the exception of $200 which was bequeathed to Myron Pelton.

STORM DAMAGE IN ALAMEDA.

MANY REPORTS ARE RECEIVED FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF THE CITY.

ALAMEDA, March 3.—The storm of Saturday night, which had full swing across this city, was the hardest ever witnessed in Alameda. The oldest inhabitants declare they never saw the wind so fierce. Streets were blocked with fallen trees; roofs were destroyed of shingles; fences and windmills were destroyed all over town.

During the early part of the evening the street department men were out trying to keep the streets clear, but they were finally compelled to stop work, the storm was so fierce. Before 12 o'clock three streets, Buena Vista, San Antonio and Grand, were completely blocked, while Santa Clara avenue and San Jose avenue were strewn with immense shade trees which had been uprooted by the wind.

Shortly after the blow began, the city was left in total darkness, wires were down in every part of town and had the power been on many people would no doubt have been electrocuted.

At the Christ Episcopal Church five large trees were blown down and blocked the street cars for several hours.

On the corner of Haight street and Santa Clara avenue a tree was blown over until it is now leaning over the road on a dangerous angle. St. Joseph's Church lost its cupola, while the Presbyterian Church was divested of its wind gauge, which was torn from the spire.

A street car on St. Clara avenue was almost completely wrecked about 6:30 Saturday evening. The car had stopped near Morton street when the juice gave out and the car men, thinking to be protected from the wind, pushed the car beneath an immense tree. The car had no more than stopped when the tree came crashing down on it and smashed the rear end of the car. Conductor C. Legrist narrowly missed being killed. Just as the tree fell he had stepped to the front end of the car.

Featherstone's dairy was also badly damaged. Three trees fell on the house, smashing in the roof.

George Renner's residence had a window blown out, and a number of trees fell on the residence of C. Bank and frightened the occupants so badly that they fled to the street.

A large tree fell across the narrow-gauge track at High street and stopped the cars for some time. On Buena Vista avenue a chimney fell and crashed through the roof of a house. Bryant Lapham, who resides on Pearl street and Encinal avenue, was demolished. Windmills, owned by the following, were wrecked: Henry Schuler, the brewer, West end; Thomas Whitely, Railroad avenue; A. G. Dexter, Oak street; and T. R. Hadden, Oak Bank alley. Two large cypress trees fell on a house.

FIRE IN ENCINAL.

ALAMEDA, March 3.—Owing to a defective chimney at the Vatumuth residence, 1215 Broadway, a fire occurred on Saturday night during the heavy wind. The fire started in the chimney, spread to the building, but not without a hard fight with the wind and flames. The fire department turned out and saved the building, but the wind and flames were so strong that the fire was compelled to crawl along the roof to keep from being blown away. While at the fire, a horse wagon came near being wrecked. The wagon was standing under a tree which fell and covered the wagon, but as the tree was not very large, the wagon was damaged slightly.

NINETY YEARS OLD.

ALAMEDA, March 3.—Yesterday Margaret B. Smith died at her home, 105 Railroad avenue. She was 90 years of age and a native of England. She leaves two sons.

APPOINTMENTS MADE BY THE ASSESSOR.

County Assessor Dalton, this morning appointed the following deputies to assess property for the ensuing year: M. J. Hyde, John C. Marsh, S. H. Wilson, W. H. Haley, J. McDonald, James R. Sloan, A. E. Schwab, John W. McCoy, George A. Cash, W. H. Van de Mark, E. T. Thayer, W. H. Henderson, H. A. Binkley, Warren Cheney, Philo Mills.

WILLS ARE ADMITTED.

The will of Alene Lucien Bayder, deceased, has been admitted to probate. He left a small estate consisting of property in Fruitvale, which is left to the widow.

The will of the late Vincent Pelton has been admitted to probate by Superior Judge Ellisworth.

FACTS FOR THE RAILROAD MEN.

SOME POINTS ABOUT SALARIES THAT WILL INTEREST WORKMEN.

The Railway Employees' Journal contains the following interesting news for railroad men:

"Every year that passes also sees the number of men required to move a ton of freight less than it ever was before. As the report usually compares the year 1932 with 1900, those years will be used unless otherwise specified. These dates are also more capable of comparison than almost any others in that both were years of so-called 'prosperity.' Each employee in 1932 moved a ton of freight in 107.12 minutes, but in 1900 he moved a ton of freight in 130 minutes. That is, in 1932, a ton of freight was moved in 22.88 minutes, an increase of 22.88 minutes, or nearly once around the globe, that each railroad worker was supposed to hustle a ton of freight in addition to the work he did seven years before. As might be expected, the engineers were paid less than the men. In 1900 they were paid $10,000 a year, but in 1932 they were paid $12,000 a year, an increase of 20 per cent. The engineers received $5.00 a day in 1932. An increase of 37 per cent would make the wages of 1900 $6.87 a day. To show their love for railroad Capital, we should have expected the engineers to throw out the coal and only keep the even 'V.' But we are overwhelmed with their whole-hearted generosity when we learn that they insisted upon their 'brother' keeping, not only the extra cent, but an extra dollar and thirty cents, while they modestly contented themselves with $3.75 a day. The full extent of their self-sacrifice is realized when we remember that the 'day' of the engineer is usually divided into so many miles run, and that this 'day' has been continually lengthening during the past decade.

"The net income per mile of line operated increased from $64 in 1900 to $139 in 1932. Reducing this to absolute figures for the entire railroad system of the whole United States, it is seen that 'net income' increased from $11,655,324 in 1900 to $22,504,417 in 1932, that is, during the period when the producing power of the labor increased 37 per cent, money wages increased 100 per cent. A FOOL AND HIS VICTIM.

In the minds of thousands of Californians the names of Charles M. Hays and Jerome A. Fillmore will be indelibly associated. There was nothing in common between the two, and it is only due to the small-minded blundering of a narrow, jealous man suddenly thrust into a position entirely too large for him that the name of Mr. Hays occurs first in the sequence of related events. Before we succor the injured we have to kick out of the way the malicious fool who caused the injury.

Mr. Fillmore had been with the Southern Pacific Company thirty years when Charles M. Hays came to it as President and General Manager. He had filled various positions with profit to the company and credit to himself, rising to the position of manager by the sheer force of merit. His controlling idea was to serve those who employed him with loyal fidelity.

In a stock deal following the death of C. P. Huntington, who was rarely deceived in men and never in a business transaction, the control of the Southern Pacific temporarily passed into the hands of men who had no acquaintance with the local conditions of which it was a product and absolutely no acquaintance with those who kept its machinery in motion.

By the strange fatuity that frequently possesses many able financiers they picked up an obscure man, clothed him with despotic power and placed him in control of the great railway system which the juggling fortunes of the stock market had thrown into their hands. It was not Mr. Hays' fault that he was not equal to his opportunity. It was not to his discredit that he had never hitherto occupied so responsible a position or been invested with so much power. The pity of it is that he frittered away a glorious chance and wrecked the life of a noble and useful man.

Jerome A. Fillmore was born to serve. Fidelity was the guiding motive of his life. He knew his business perfectly; every detail of the great railway system was as familiar to him as the furniture in his own house. He was not seeking opportunity or power, but he desired to serve the interests committed to his charge to the best of his ability, which was large, and without friction as far as possible. He knew, with the natural instinct of a mechanical man, that the chief obstacle to smooth and economical running was friction. That he tried to avoid.

Hays, puffed with the unexpected eminence of his new found place and intoxicated with the authority it conferred, felt it necessary to show his capacity by kicking away the props that had made the Southern Pacific fabric what it was. He found Fillmore a man of modesty and capacity, and he could not understand the character of such a person. He listened with the greedy ear of a small-minded and jealous man to the tales that were brought to him by every politician who had received a rebuff and every employee who had been given a rebuke. Dizzy, with his sudden elevation, he imagined that every man of potency and capacity connected with the old management was conspiring against him. It was the mistake of a small man in a large position.

Then he did a cruel and ignoble thing—one so unjust and so contrary to the dictates of sound judgment that indignation at the outrage is lost in wonder at the folly of the man. He first inhaled the notion that the man who had loyally toiled thirty years for the corporation was a self-seeker anxious to promote himself at the expense of others, ignoring utterly the loss of a life that had been full of achievement and fidelity for others.

Mr. Hays also found here a political sentiment opposed to the railroad company. He did not realize that this sentiment was complex in character and was divided of individual significance save for the man who controlled the company's policy. Perhaps he was as incapable of grasping conditions as he was of making use of his opportunities. At any rate he failed to comprehend that men who were enemies of the Southern Pacific were warm friends of J. A. Fillmore. He did not understand that Mr. Fillmore tempered the animosity against the railroad that he was recognized and respected as a capable and loyal man in a trying position; that he tried to the best of his ability to serve the public as well as his employers; that with the great array of the company's employees he was a trustee just but kindly; that if he exacted strenuous service he advocated the most liberal pay; that all his acts were directed toward bringing the railroad company into better relations with its employees and the public.

Hays struck this man down. The pity of the brutal outrage overwhelms the feeling of indignation. It was so senseless and unjust a thing that men marvel at the folly of the petty despot who did it. Fillmore was popular where the railroad was unpopular. He was in nobody's way. He never bothered himself with anything outside the line of his duty. He was a railroad man pure and simple, devoting his energies to the service of his charge. He never meddled with politics, and conspiring for his own advancement was absolutely foreign to his nature. Hays would have found him a loyal and able confidant, a wise counselor and a most trustworthy and competent assistant. But the capacity and the offensiveness of this true heart only inflamed the malignity of the jealous little tyrant hoisted into power by the vicissitudes of a stock deal.

The evil that men do lives after them. Hays has gone back to his former obscurity, but that is no compensation for the injury he did. Fillmore cannot be recalled to life. As all his friends knew he died of a broken heart. He was stricken down without warning and without excuse. It was a tragedy so pathetic that callous men hardly speak of it without shuddering tears. It seems even worse to die at the hands of a fool than at the hands of an enemy. The only claim to distinction that Charles M. Hays will have in the eyes of Californians is that he broke the heart of Jerome A. Fillmore and drove him to an untimely death. But, oh the pity of it!

By the terms of the treaty just ratified by the Senate the United States are to pay $5,000,000 for the Danish West Indies. As they embrace a total territory of 164,000 acres, this is at the rate of a little over $30 an acre. The inhabitants number 32,000 three-fourths colored. On the basis of population the price is a trifle more than $156 a head.

Prince Henry has evidently a live advance agent. He has already narrowly escaped being in a railroad wreck. Now if he will only lose a few valuable diamonds he will be fully prepared for billing as a first-class vaudeville artist.

MEETING HELD BY THE BAPTISTS

The Pacific Coast Free Baptist Association held its regular semi-annual meeting with the Oakland Free Baptist Church on Saturday. Reports of a very favorable nature were received from the various churches at the morning business meeting. Fifty dollars in cash was raised for the Sacramento mission under the care of Rev. Thomas R. Ribbe. It is hoped that they can dedicate the new chapel in Sacramento free from debt during the present month. It was decided to open a new mission in San Francisco under the superintendence of Miss May Turner, now chaplain of the Soldiers' Home in that city. After the lunch served by the ladies in the vestry, Rev. William N. Meserve preached the conference sermon from the text "Seedtime and Harvest Shall Not Cease." The convention, which followed closed the session, which, notwithstanding the heavy rain was one of the best attended sessions ever held by the association.

LIVERMORE CASE FOR THE CORONER

LIVERMORE, March 3.—Samuel Liverty, a well known horseman, died here about 7 o'clock Sunday morning under very peculiar circumstances. Only an autopsy will reveal whether or not the man took his own life. Liverty had just returned to town after a three weeks' absence. He drove in about 5 o'clock in the morning camped in a grove of trees at the edge of town. With his wife, two hours later he suddenly went into convulsions and died almost instantly.

RAILROAD MAN READY FOR WORK

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—A. G. Wells, who has succeeded the late W. G. Novin as general manager of the Santa Fe Railroad, arrived at the Palace Hotel last night. He was general superintendent of the Santa Fe system, with headquarters at Los Angeles, and will assume the duties of his new office immediately. With Mr. Wells are several of his superintendents who have made up an inspection party. All the roads in the system west of Albuquerque have been thoroughly inspected. In the party are F. J. Shepard, the new general superintendent at Los Angeles; Chief Engineer R. L. Burns of Los Angeles; Superintendent A. D. Schneider of Fresno; H. Tuttle, trainmaster; Superintendent W. B. Kearney of Pasadena; Superintendent John Davis of Needles; I. L. Hubbard of Willow, Arizona.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY. The Oakland Philharmonic Society will commence rehearsals for the second concert of the season, next Tuesday at 8 p. m. Room 46 Blake Block, Washington street. The work selected is Mendelssohn's "Walpurgis Night." Vocalists desirous of joining the Society should apply at an early date. The first concert was an unequalled success.

BROKE HIS SHOULDER. William Higgins, an attendant at the race track, got into an altercation with an associate and received a broken arm. He said he was hit with a 2 x 4 scumming. Dr. Stratton attended to him.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED BITTERS. To strengthen your stomach it is impossible to find a better medicine than the Bitters. It makes the digestive system normal, builds nerve tissue and tones up the entire system. Try it for Belching, Flatulency, Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Insomnia.

SMART SET MAKES DATES FOR THE LENTEN SEASON

Hopkins-M'Near Wedding in San Francisco Tomorrow—Company A Gives a Banquet—Personal and Social.

Two important mid-Lenten weddings will take place tomorrow, says the Examiner. Miss Georgia Hopkins, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hopkins, will be married to Frederick W. McNear. The ceremony will take place at the Hopkins' California-street residence at noon. The decorations will consist mainly of spring blossoms and lilacs. Miss Frances Taylor, a cousin of the bride, will be maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Edith McNear, Miss Therese Morgan, Miss Carrie Taylor and Miss McNear, a sister of the groom.

The Rev. F. W. Clappett of Trinity Church will perform the ceremony. The ushers will be Harry N. Stetson, Alfred Wilcox, Henry W. Poett and Harry R. Stimpkins.

Miss Milla Lally, another charming bride, will become the bride of Henry Lund Jr. tomorrow evening at her home, 1814 Pacific avenue. Miss Charlotte Lally, a sister of the bride-to-be, will be maid of honor. The decorations will be in pink and white and the gowns of the bridal party will match.

The Rev. Bradford Leavitt will perform the ceremony. Miss Kate Gunn, Miss Georgia Lacy, Miss Muriel Russell of Alameda and Miss Ruby Johnson of San Jose will be bridesmaids. The ushers will be William Wood, Charles Hutchinson, William Horn and Roy Pike. Starr Keeler will be best man.

OAKLAND CHAPTER.

The members of Oakland Chapter No. 149 of the Order of the Eastern Star are making preparations for the entertainment and dance to be given next Thursday evening at Masonic Hall in this city. The interior of the hall will be lavishly decorated by the ladies and assistants, and every effort will be made to render the affair a memorable one.

The feature of the evening will be the production of the well-known farce, "Turn Him Out," the plot of which hangs on a case of mistaken identity. Those who will take part in the farce are Miss Mabel Hopkins, Miss Mabel Palmer, Charles Wood, F. J. Lea and John Laughland. The entertainment will be followed by dance, and a large attendance is expected.

The committee of arrangements is composed of Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Milla Palmer and Mr. M. Hoffmann. The officers of the chapter, who are taking great interest in the affair, are as follows: Patron, Mrs. A. Cockerton; patroness, Fred Tilden; assistant patroness, Mrs. B. H. Heller; assistant patroness, Mrs. P. H. Heller; assistant conductress, Mrs. P. H. Heller; treasurer, Mrs. Emma Shaw; secretary, Mrs. Bennett Cushing; warden, Mrs. P. H. Heller; sentinels, Mrs. Baker, Captain John Williams, and organist, Mrs. Poulter.

COMPANY A'S BANQUET. Saturday evening Company A gave its annual banquet in the Armory, at which the members of the company, with their wives and guests, were entertained. In all there were about 175 at the table, which had been artistically decorated by the members of the company.

The early announcement that Landers Stevens, the proprietor of the New Jewels, could not be present owing to the illness of his mother, and the violence of the storm, which wrecked all the electric wires, put a damper on the occasion for a time. But once ushered into the gorgeous banquet room the guests soon forgot the sorry and gloomy cheer that always surrounds the banquet of the New Jewels. The interior was complete in artistic effects.

The menu was as follows: Large Eastern omelette on half-shell. (If the oysters don't fit the shell, don't.)

Spring Fancies in Neckwear and Veils

To be smart this season, your neck scarf should be either very mannish or distinctly delicate and feminine. Stocks, coats and the heavier silk butterfly and four-in-hand ties are as plain and simple as those worn by your well dressed men friends. On the other hand you will find broad, soft scarfs of lawn, chiffon and crepe de chine which tie up very becomingly in fichu effects. Those with lace ends have great popularity and others with a little turn over about the neck to match the ends claim their share of favor.

Neckwear

Hemstitched and embroidered lap-over collars of fine lawn and linen 15 cents to $1.75
Silk bow ties with hemstitched ends 35 cents
Four-in-hands of watered silk 50 cents
Stocks and coats of fine chevrons—spring colorings 50 cents

Men's Neckwear Department

Broad ties of embroidered lawn with hemstitched ends—in white and colors 45 to 60 cents
White silk Windsor with Persian ends 60 cents
Silk and crepe de chine automobiles with embroidered turn-over collar and ends to match 65 cents to $2.50
The "St. Andrew's Links" stock $1.25
Crepe de chine ties with Persian, Renaissance and real Duchess and Point lace ends $1.25-$6.50
Silk crepe and chiffon scarfs in white, black and Persian effects $2.75-$7.50

Novelty Veilings

Chiffon veilings with embroidered edge and chenille dots of black and white 60 and 65 cents per yard
Black, brown and blue chiffon veilings with embroidered and chenille dots and finished edges 60 cents

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL.

The idea of giving an ensemble concert in the Elbel Club Rooms has been advanced by Mrs. L. F. Cockcroft, and indications are that it will soon be carried out with great success. It is to be a strictly invitational affair and some excellent musical talent has already been booked. Among those who will probably be heard are Miss Helen Hagar, John Lewis, Lowell Langstroth and the Coburn Quartet, of which Mrs. Marriener-Campbell is director.

The Cup and Saucer Club, one of the new Lenon card clubs, will meet on March 12 at Mrs. F. D. Dallam's on El-dorado street.

EMERYVILLE WEDDING.

John C. Coburn, Town Clerk and Assessor of Emeryville, and Miss Katherine P. Gillette of Honolulu were married last evening at the Coburn residence. It was a quiet home wedding, and there were no brilliant attendants. The Rev. Alfred Bayley, pastor of the Third Fourth Street Congregational Church, officiated.

Mr. Coburn is one of the most popular officials in Emeryville. He has a host of friends in the county.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCEMENT.

The engagement of Miss Hattie Jacobsen and Mr. Julius Cohn was announced yesterday at an at home given by the bride-to-be at her home at 1337 Laguna street, San Francisco.

Miss Hattie Jacobsen is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jacobson of San Francisco. Mr. Julius Cohn is one of Oakland's most prominent business men. The exact date of the wedding has not been set, but Miss Jacobsen says that it will be in the near future.

MRS. CROWLEY'S SUCCESS.

Mrs. D. D. Crowley, a prominent society woman and accomplished musician, has set to music the words of William Carman Roberts' celebrated poem, "At Twilight," says the Examiner. The music, of impressive nature and dignified, swinging movement in accompaniment that characterizes her other lullabies.

Mrs. Crowley gained a reputation as a composer of lullabies through her "This Little Story, Always New," "Sleep, My Child," and "Mamma's Lullaby," which were published at the "Opportunities of her friends."

"I do it all for pleasure," says Mrs. Crowley, "and in the first place, to give my compositions a public hearing. I have been urged by my friends to give three of my pieces to the public. I began by writing a set piece to music only to amuse myself."

ST. PATRICK'S CONCERT.

A special concert in honor of the birthday of St. Patrick will be given by the young ladies of Oakland at Reed Hall on March 7.

Professor Adolph Gregory has charge of the music and the words of William Carman Roberts' celebrated poem, "At Twilight," says the Examiner. The music, of impressive nature and dignified, swinging movement in accompaniment that characterizes her other lullabies.

Mrs. Crowley gained a reputation as a composer of lullabies through her "This Little Story, Always New," "Sleep, My Child," and "Mamma's Lullaby," which were published at the "Opportunities of her friends."
